Purpose

A key objective of the UC San Diego DISC is to support D&I training, mentorship and research advancement of our DISC community. The UC San Diego DISC will offer Training and Dissemination Awards for a limited number of awardees pursuing D&I education and/or research advancement opportunities. These small awards (up to $1,000 each) are intended to support costs related to D&I training and dissemination including travel to D&I training events or conferences, D&I conference fees, or publication/presentation expenses.

Eligibility

To be eligible for funding, you must meet each of these requirements:

1) Be a current UC San Diego DISC Member or Investigator. Join here.
2) Provide documentation of an allowable expense(s) (e.g., D&I conference fees, training fees, travel expenses, publication and/or dissemination of D&I product expenses) reimbursable incurred between August 2020 to September 2021.
3) Have not received a DISC Training and Dissemination award in the current funding cycle (August 2020-September 2021).
4) Must be working or studying at UC San Diego or one of the UC San Diego ACTRI Affiliates listed here (see end of page).

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis. A limited number of awards will be available each year.

- Award requests can be made up to $1,000.
- Awards may not be spent on food, alcohol, or entertainment/leisure.
- Funding to partially reimburse expenses is allowable.

Example Proposals for the DISC Training And Dissemination Awards

- Partial or full reimbursement for open-access publication processing charges to D&I Journal (e.g. Implementation Science, Implementation Science Communications). Must show evidence of pending publication.
- D&I conference registration fee (e.g., AcademyHealth Annual Conference on the Science of Dissemination and Implementation).
- Academic conference fee with presentation of D&I material/presentation.
- Participation in a D&I training opportunity (e.g., Institute for Implementation Science Scholars, Washington University in St. Louis)
- D&I graduate course training/certification tuition reimbursement (e.g., ACCORDS D&I Graduate Certificate, UCSF Graduate Certificate)
How to Apply

The proposal will be submitted through Qualtrics and includes four sections:

1. Professional background information.
2. Upload current curriculum vitae.
3. Background Statement: 1-page description of the background context for the training or dissemination opportunity and how the proposed opportunity will advance the UC San Diego DISC Mission.
   a. If you are applying for conference or meeting coverage, please provide a detailed description of the meeting and your proposed level of involvement. Please describe 1) how you plan to participate, 2) the knowledge and/or skills gained, and 3) how participation and/or presentation will support your D&I science career development and/or dissemination of your work to your intended audience. Please also describe why this conference cannot be covered by other available funds.
   b. If you are applying for publication coverage, please describe 1) your publication concentration with emphasis on D&I science and where you are in the publication process, 2) how this publication will support the dissemination of your work to your intended audience, and 3) how the proposed D&I award will support your D&I career advancement or professional development. Please also describe why this publication cannot be covered by other available funds.
4. Budget Justification
   a. 1-page brief budget justification. A budget that lists the specific items requested for funding and that justifies those expenses.
Application Timeline

Application deadline: Rolling basis. Decisions will be returned in approximately 4-6 weeks.

1. Complete application survey describing D&I training opportunity or dissemination product and why this is important for D&I research and career advancement.
2. Within one week, the application will be reviewed by the UC San Diego DISC Coordinator to ensure eligibility.
3. Within 3-5 weeks, the application will be reviewed by UC San Diego DISC Award Review Team for scoring and decision.
4. Within four weeks, applicants will be informed of the decision via email.
5. UC San Diego DISC will request appropriate forms or required paperwork, e.g., estimated expenses, conference purchase receipt, airfare receipt, hotel receipt in advance of the event or publication submission.
6. Awardee will attend the event or submit a manuscript for publication. Awardee saves associated receipts and/or confirmation of attendance (typically conference brochure)
7. Final package of receipts and documentation submitted to UC San Diego DISC.
8. UC San Diego DISC issues payment after the event.

Questions: please contact UC San Diego DISC with questions at disc@health.ucsd.edu
Evaluation Criteria

Grading criteria depends if the nature of the proposal is 1) for publication dissemination or 2) training activity (e.g., conference presentation/participation, attending a D&I training event). Each score is out of 20 total points.
