Welcome to the Ultrasound Division of the Department of Emergency Medicine at the University of California San Diego. We are excited to be part of the evolving field of Emergency Ultrasound. Our mission is to advocate for the use of point-of-care ultrasound through education, interdepartmental collaboration and research. We believe strongly in the use of focused ultrasound in the clinical setting for a variety of reasons:

Adjunctive tool to guide resuscitation

Fast, real-time information

Improved patient care and safety during procedures

Less radiation to our patients

Increases time at bedside with patients and increases patient satisfaction

Our program is designed to educate students, residents and fellows in the skill of point-of-care ultrasound. We have five ultrasound trained faculty and two fellows. We also collaborate closely with our critical care colleagues, as well as our pediatric colleagues at Rady's Children's Hospital in San Diego. UCSD is a vast health network including a level I trauma center, the renowned Moore's cancer center, the new Jacob's Center, and the Sculpizio Cardiovascular Center. We strive to be on the cutting edge of education, technology and research in ultrasound. We invite you to join us in our mission.
