

Do you want to work in a world-renowned laboratory during your gap years, gaining experience and expanding scientific horizon in metabolism research? The Saltiel Laboratory is looking to hire a full time Staff Research Associate 1 to study the molecular pathways underlying the regulation of glucose uptake and storage, insulin resistance, and obesity. We are looking for a biological sciences or other relevant major graduate with prior research experience who is passionate about research and has prior experience with laboratory techniques such as cell culture sterile techniques, animal husbandry, molecular biology techniques, qPCR, western blotting and etc. If you are interested please email your CV to shreilly@health.ucsd.edu